

Difficult Decisions

Our emotions sometimes make it hard for us to make the best decisions for ourselves. Counseling can help us focus and discern what is best for us, independent of our feelings or pressure from other people.