

Parenting Challenges

Specific strategies and moral support from a counselor are helpful, when parents are faced with difficult parenting situations. When changing or escalating situations with a child or children happen frequently, a counselor can help parents sort out the details and respond effectively.